11th September 2020

Welcome back to the new school year, it has been fantastic seeing everyone again. Although obviously things are not back to normal it has been lovely seeing the children so excited and happy to be back at school with their friends and teachers. They have been truly amazing taking all the new systems and rules in their stride. A special mention to Chestnut class children who have all been in school this week, coming in independently, and settling really well. We look forward to getting to know them and their families and I am sure you will do all you can to welcome them.

Thank you very much to those families who have donated cleaning/hand washing products we really appreciate the help. As you can imagine we are going through soap and hand sanitizer at an alarming rate.

Please make sure you check your email over the weekend as the start and end of day routines have been modified. Thank you for your cooperation with the staggered entry/exit to school. It has worked well, so we are changing the times getting back to a more regular school day with time between year groups made smaller. This will hopefully help working parents BUT will only be possible if everyone follows the clear guidelines and expectation of adults socially distancing.

Have a lovely weekend, I think the children will be quite tired by the end of today.

Miss Robertson

Here We Are

English

This has been a year of significant world events, disrupting and changing the ways of life of people across the globe. We recognise that the children in our care will have had unique experiences and responses to the events of 2020 and in order to help support our school community, re-connect with each other and re-engage with school life, the whole school is working on a single text, 'Here We Are' by Oliver Jeffers. The book provides a powerful vehicle for children to reflect and make sense of the world we are all living in. In all year groups children have started to key themes of: Earth's place in the wider universe; the Earth's environment; our place on the planet as humans; how we, as humans, relate to each other; other species and our responsibility towards them; belonging and community and our responsibility as world citizens. In the coming weeks, each year group will create a display which we will share with you.
