This Week's Highlights

Chestnut Class have enjoyed learning the nursery rhyme 'Jack and Jill' and did some printing using objects with different textures to make Jack and Jill buckets.

Year 2 have been mixing colour, using increasing quantities of white to make the original colour lighter.

3P have been investigating the inside of a flower and identifying the different parts. We have also been learning about the role that each part of the flower has.

This Week's Highlights

This October, 4P are celebrating amazing Black, British women who are making history today. This week we have been looking at their back stories.

4C have been working really hard on their times tables this week. Today we played some games during maths to consolidate our knowledge.

5A have been loving their music lessons with Miss Swift. Today we were learning 'London is the place for me' and looking at its history and links to the Windrush.

To celebrate World Space Week 5S have enjoyed putting physics into action by designing and making catapult rockets in science.

Year 6 are celebrating diversity in literature this Black History Month. We are being encouraged to read books by black authors and books about black history and culture.

6F have been learning about the Jewish feasts of Rosh Hashanah and Yom Kippur. We learned that apples dipped in honey are eaten when praying for a good and sweet year ahead and thought we'd sample some in class.

Is your child an aspiring young artist? Enter this competition – and they could win an amazing trip to the Houses of Parliament!

The 'Find Your Balance: A day in my digital life' art competition, in partnership with Google, is asking children aged 5-11 to draw a picture showing how they find a healthy balance in their online and offline lives. The top 50 entries will go on display in the Houses of Parliament, with the two national winners winning a trip to London to see their artwork on display.

Please visit <https://parentzone.org.uk/findyourbalance> for more details. This exciting opportunity is part of Digital Parenting Week which is on 11-15 October and children will be doing a range of fun activities designed to promote family wellbeing - both online and off.
